The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples For Jesus

Gospel Reading

Mark 14: 12-16, 22-26

On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, when they sacrificed the Passover lamb, Jesus' disciples said to him, "Where do you want us to go and prepare for you to eat the Passover?" He sent two of his disciples and said to them, "Go into the city and a man will meet you, carrying a jar of water. Follow him. Wherever he enters, say to the master of the house, 'The Teacher says, "Where is my guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"' Then he will show you a large upper room furnished and ready. Make preparations for us there." The disciples went off, entered the city, and found it just as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover.

While they were eating, he took bread, said the blessing, broke it, gave it to them, and said, "Take it; this is my body." Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them, and they all drank from it. He said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, which will be shed for many. Amen, I say to you, I shall not drink again the fruit of the vine until the day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God." Then, after singing a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

Read about the Passover meal in Exodus 12. What does it foreshadow?

Obviously, the depth of devotion and celebration varies for us as we participate in communion. What makes the Eucharist celebration especially meaningful for you?

MARRIAGE MINUTE— "This is my body, given up for you." These words, spoken at Mass, make Jesus present in the Blessed Sacrament. If you are married in the Church, you and your spouse are a different kind of "blessed sacrament," one designed by God to signify the sacrificial love that Jesus has for us all! We also make Jesus present when we "give up our bodies" for each other, in ways such as: • Making physical affection and intimacy an important part of our lives • Carrying and/or caring for the needs of children • Working to provide for the family's needs • Performing ordinary acts of service with great love • Choosing to be present with your spouse instead of elsewhere To maximize the joy in your marriage check out: www.JoyfulMarriageProject.com

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

When bringing our dog, Oreo, home from the vet my wife's finger was pierced through by the leash clip when Oreo rushed forward. With one end of the leash fastened to a pulling dog, which she was restraining with her uninjured hand, and the clip on the other end of the leash embedded through my wife's finger, she called to our teenage son for help removing the clip. Though having just completed a First Aid course, he looked at the clip protruding through the flesh of her finger and cringing and grimacing, said, "I can't, I can't do it." The sight of the pierced bleeding hand almost sickened him. Many of us can identify with him as we have said or heard another say to us, "I can't stand the sight of blood." What is it about blood that has this affect on us? It isn't the beautiful, deep red color of blood that gets to us but the fact that the blood represents the pain and suffering associated with spilling it. Yet for Christians the world over, the pierced Body and Blood of Jesus has become precious, not something to cringe at and shrink from but rather to remember, appreciate, and adore. We honor the Body and Blood of Jesus because of the pain, suffering and sacrifice it represents, and the saving effect it has. We would all be shocked and highly offended if someone treated the Eucharist with disdain, or partook of it with a cavalier attitude. How can we insure that we properly honor, appreciate, and express gratitude to Jesus for shedding his blood, and giving his body to secure our salvation? This week's second Scripture reading provides some insight. We can do this by cooperating with the eternal intent and purpose for which it was shed; to "purify your conscience from dead works to serve the living God." Three purposes are revealed here. First his Body and Blood should "purify your conscience." Which in fact it does, as Jesus' sacrifice of his Body and Blood on our behalf, brings forgiveness and cleansing from every stain of sin. However, this purification should not simply be a theological reality but also should be an experiential cleansing from the "dead works" that defile us. This cleansing is expressed in real repentance and true conversion. In addition, appreciation for the Body and Blood of Christ should constrain, or impel us forward, so that we no longer live for ourselves but live to "serve the living God." This is the efficacious cycle that should be our spiritual reality. The Body and Blood of Christ should affect cleansing from sin within us, bring transformation to us, and mobilization of us to serve him. These are the eternal purposes for which Jesus gives us his Body and Blood. We can honor both it and Jesus' purpose by eagerly participating in this cycle. Ambrose, bishop of Milan, speaking of the Eucharist, "... recounts many of the miracles described in the Scriptures, including Christ's birth of the Virgin Mary, and then turning to the work of creation, concludes this: 'Surely the Word of Christ, which could make out of nothing that which did not exist, can change things already in existence into what they were not. For it is not less extraordinary to give things new natures than to change their natures.' "* This mystery of faith which we profess each Sunday as we receive the Eucharist, is reinforced and validated by us as we cooperate with the Holy Spirit to ensure that a similar process takes place within us. For the Spirit also works in us changing us into what we are not, by implanting within us his new nature; "Therefore, if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come." (2 Corinthians 5:17)
