The Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples For Jesus

WELCOME FR. ANTHONY CHENDUMALLI

Prayerful Greetings from Father Anthony Chendumalli. As I am excited to come here as a new pastor at Frankfort, Blaine and Blue Rapids.
Fr Daniel Schmitz asked me to pen something about me so that people may know me before I came here. I am from Southern part of India, belong to the same diocese of Father Arul, whom you know him well. I was serving as a Secretary to my Bishop back in India. Recently I was assisting Father Arul serving in Sabetha, Fidelity and Wetmore.

Fr. Arul requested my Bishop to send me over here. He faced so much pressure to bring me here. It all happened in a very quick time. I am really very grateful to him. I come from a large family of 10 children, and my father died when I was 20 years old. My mother, whom I can call her saint, raised all the children with much difficulty. Father Arul helped in my difficulties when I was in India. I have still siblings at home going to High School. It's my first travel outside of the country and I am very happy to be here and serve you all. I thank

Father Daniel Schmitz for all the easy transition of the work and encouraging support. Dear friends in Christ, God bless you all.

With Prayers,

Father Anthony Chendumalli.

MARRIAGE MINUTE— Do you ever get frustrated with your spouse for doing that one small, annoying thing over and over even though you have made it clear that it bothers you? Have you ever been frustrated with yourself for having to apologize for the same thing? Weakness is hard to accept... both in ourselves and our spouse. This weekend's readings tell us that when we are weak, we are strong. Why? • Every act of forgiveness is a recommitment to love that makes us stronger. • Our own weakness makes us humble, relying on God's grace. • Accepting our spouse's weakness helps us to be patient with ourselves (and vice versa!). Stuck thinking about your spouse's faults? Try massive amounts of compliments and affirmation! They don't erase weakness, but change your focus.

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

On May 13, 1981 an assassin's bullet ripped through the stomach of Pope John Paul II, and initiated a trial of suffering that lasted several months, required multiple surgeries, was complicated by a viral infection, and required two lengthy hospital stays. Yet through this ordeal Pope John Paul II maintained a positive spirit, and demonstrated ongoing concern for others and for the Church. Whereas many would have bemoaned their fate, Pope John Paul II confessed, "One hand fired, and another one guided the bullet." For him there is no doubt about the protection which saved him from death...<sup>1</sup> How people respond to the difficulties they encounter in life is a theme of this Sunday's Mass readings. We see God's people confronted with difficult situations, situations which most of us would call major problems. For instance, Ezekiel was given the very difficult task of trying to communicate with obstinate and rebellious people. Paul faced a different problem, he experienced a physical malady that some think was an eye disease, which hindered and limited his freedom to serve Christ. These problems, which are similar to ones we confront, reinforce the reality that a Christian believer is not immune to difficulties. On the contrary, they demonstrate that sometimes a believer's problems are multiplied by virtue of being a believer. The issues we must face when we encounter problems is whether we view them as obstacles or opportunities, and whether we view ourselves as victims or victors. In honesty we must confess that frequently these situations are viewed primarily as obstacles wherein we do not see the opportunities, but only see ourselves as being victimized by unpleasant circumstances. The perspective which we need in order to change the way we view difficult circumstances, is faith, faith in the goodness of God and faith in the power of God to help. We see in this week's Gospel reading that people's obstinate unwillingness to trust in Jesus created a situation where they could not experience Christ's power. They had the unfortunate inclination to view Jesus' power in light of their own limitations. However, for God's children life's problems are really opportunities for us to exercise our faith. As our faith is exercised it is made stronger through the process, and we experience Christ's power in new and unusual ways. Ezekiel couldn't be obedient and at the same time sit around and bemoan his job assignment. He had to believe that God knew what was best and in faith proceed with the assignment given him. Paul, utilized his faith to ask for deliverance from his malady, and when God said, "No," Paul used his faith not to simply surrender stoically to his condition, but to glory in it, looking to see how God's grace would be magnified through his life because of his sickness. Their faith in God's love and power enabled them to recognize, as did John Paul II, that in reality another hand, God's, directed their lives. When we view the difficulties and complications that enter our lives as wonderful opportunities to experience God's love, grace, and power, we will find ourselves at peace, energized to do what we can, and amazed at the miracles God works in us and on our behalf. "For this reason, Jesus did not hesitate to proclaim the blessedness of those who suffer: 'Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted. ... "This blessedness can only be understood if one admits that human life is not limited to our time spent on earth, but is wholly directed to perfect joy and fullness of life in the hereafter. Earthly suffering, when accepted in love, is like a bitter kernel
